Description: America's most entertaining and practical accounting seminar. No academics here-only practical, real world information from a practicing CPA. Over 15 years ago Bob Jennings had a goal; to take those old, boring accounting seminars where professors talked about things that no one did, and transform them to vibrant, useful seminars that were interesting and practical. Today the Jennings Accounting Seminar does just that. We discuss compilations, reviews & ethics from the perspective of a local accounting firm-and that's all we do! But wait-we also offer you a comprehensive, well-organized reference manual including report letters, engagement letters, workpaper, reporting & performance guidelines! We also discuss the new engagement letter requirements of SSARS 12, why you don't want to do reviews, and why you have to be very careful with compilations. Of course we never hesitate to give our opinion! This group-live seminar is offered in a format providing 8 credit hours.

Requirements: Dress warmly in layers. Society establishes times & locations

Registration: Registration for state sponsored events such as this one are handled by the individual states and not through our site. Contact information for registration is:
